 Beneficial Owner:

The Beneficial Owner is the natural person on whose behalf a transaction or activity is carried out, that is, in the case of a legal entity, the individual or individuals who ultimately own or control this entity, and rather result beneficiary according to the following criteria:

A. In case of companies:

1. The individual or individuals who ultimately own or control a legal entity through the direct or indirect ownership or control of a sufficient percentage of the shares in the share capital or of the voting right within that legal entity, including through bearer shares, as long as it is not a company admitted to trading on a regulated market and subject to disclosure requirements consistent with the Community legislation or subject to equivalent international standards; this criterion is satisfied with the percentage of 25 per cent plus one of participation in the share capital;
2. The natural person or persons who otherwise exercise control over the management of a legal entity;

B. In case of legal entities such as foundations and legal institutes such as trusts, which administer and distribute funds:

1. Where the future beneficiaries have already been determined, the natural person or persons payee by the 25 percent or more of the property of a legal entity;
2. Where the beneficiaries have not yet been determined, the class of persons in whose main interest a legal entity is set up or operates;
3. The natural person or persons who exercise control over the 25 per cent or more of the assets of a legal entity.
